

The Democrats be at their post, and see if they can support a young hickory ball as many years as the Whigs have a shattered Reed.

Reed's Argument.—The principles our fathers fought for—may we transmit them to our children—those principles are like our fathers, plain, simple, and to be understood if we have no Daniels or Nicholases, to clothe them in a God-like mystery.

Mr. Hayscock. Van Buren and Johnson—Two pillars raised by the democracy of the country, and will be sustained by the democracy of the country.

W. H. Hayscock. Union of Democracy—A genuine, spontaneous, and undivided devotion to Popular Rights, the fundamental principle of Free Institutions, and the great eternal truth of the Genius of Liberty.

John C. Hayscock. Martin Van Buren—This pupil of Jefferson, having imbibed the principles of his worthy predecessor, with a whole life of fidelity to his country, as a bond for the future, he will never desert them.

Mr. Hayscock. Equal laws, securing to all Equal Rights.

Charles A. Smith. Robert Rantoul, Jr., Esq.—The orator of the day at the Heart of the Commonwealth—he has the best interests of the Commonwealth always at heart.

C. R. Goodman. Liberty—Heaven's richest gift to man—may all its children soon enjoy the blessing.

James W. Holt. The Cause, Republican Democracy; the Effect, the preservation of our Constitution and national honor.

Henry F. Webb. The Representative to the next Congress from the 4th District in Massachusetts—Elected not by sagacity, but by the independent yeomanry of Middlesex.

By Dr. Duggan, of Quincy.—The Boston Post and Statesman—Faithful soldiers in the cause of Liberty; Democracy has no worthier defenders of our principles.

S. Evelyn.—The orator of the day—His eloquent and faithful delineation of the principles of the Democratic Party, show him to have imbibed his pure and uncontaminated, from the fountain head.

James N. Brewer.—To the memory of that inflexible Patriot John Hancock; may his name ever be dear to the American people.

Edward Shaw. Van Buren and Webster—The first practical politician, in favor of union, independence, and the people's rights; the latter a pattern of aristocracy, a stock jobber of banking institutions—may the Hickory club teach him a lesson of radical reform, before he is driven by despair, to seek an asylum in the tombs of his brethren at the Hartford Convention school.

S. Allen. The North and the South—The Pat lotism of the one induced the first blow towards our National Liberty. The Patism of the other gave us the charter of our National Independence. May the Union be eternal.

Robert Cawden. Old Massachusetts, the Car of Aristocracy—may the People upon her and steer in the good ship Democracy.

James Dennison.—Our hardy Fishermen—a useful and independent class of the community, generally true Democrats; they want no Banks but those which God has given them.

W. C. Jenkins.—A Democrat—A sound coin, and of current value—rare, but found, worth at least his weight in gold.

Fred Warren, of Woburn.—Old Massachusetts, the citadel of Aristocracy—May the people rise to the ground, and plant the standard of true democracy in its stead.

Levi B. Lincoln.—The 4th of July 1837—Remarkable in the annals of this country for the universal suspension of specie payments. May the next 4th of July be equally remarkable for a currency based on silver and gold, never to be shaken.

T. R. Page.—The heads of Departments of the United States—May they still continue to merit the confidence of their fellow citizens.

Geo. W. Wright.—The four grand pillars of a republican government—Liberty, Equality, Unity, and Peace.

William O. Blake.—Democracy—A sound currency—may it circulate freely among the people, and never be at a discount.

H. Thaxter, of Hingham.—Hon. Marcus Morton—The honest and impartial judge, the inflexible republican, possessing integrity above suspicion, he secures the respect and admiration of his friends, and disarms party slander of its sting.

W. Bowen.—The City of Boston—Justly celebrated for her literary and moral acquirements—May the time soon come when her political character shall correspond.

Hiram T. Foster.—Fulani—Should the memory of the brave be forgotten? Let our very hearts answer NO.

C. J. F. Allen.—The Currency—Let the democracy of the country continue to support the principles and policy of Andrew Jackson, and then, instead of unremunerable rag money as a currency, we shall have Gold and Silver, the only standard of value recognized by the Constitution.

J. R. Cowden.—The unjust gains of the Rich the sweat of the Poor man's brow.

VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. Benton.—A man whose reputation cannot be tarnished even by the miserable expedient adopted by his enemies, of giving his name to that currency which was his policy to destroy.

Martin Van Buren.—His character, like the precious metals, becomes brighter the more it is handled.

Amos Kendall.—His abilities are such, that with justice on his side, he has for eight years contended successfully against a whole host of federal calumniators.

Isaac Hill.—Like all the hills of his own state, he rises above the foul exhalations of calumny, too highly elevated by his own talents and merits to be vulnerable to the shafts of his enemies.

President Wayland.—He is a great man who has sufficient moral courage in a time of political excitement, to point out the errors of his own party.

Levi Woodbury.—An officer of government who enjoys the honor of having been impeached by the Boston Atlas, and who has done nothing that has gained its commendation.

David Henshaw.—Esteemed for his faithfulness and ability in the performance of his official duties, by all parties—and feared as a powerful and ingenious writer by his political enemies.

R. Rantoul, Jr.—A star in the Eastern horizon rapidly rising above the mists of federal calumny to the zenith of political honor.

Harriet Martineau.—May she be presented with an ear trumpet, which will enable her to hear the praises which are consigned to her by the press!

English Travellers in America.—A set of male and female exquisites, whose self-esteem is so greatly elevated by the attention which they receive from the Americans, that they believe themselves by duty bound to give us a volume of instructions in manners, politics and morals, as soon as they return.

The Science of the Law.—Unlike all other Science—it is rendered more difficult and obscure in proportion to the multiplication of its books.

American Criticism.—An echo of the opinions of the hirelings of English book-sellers.

The Critics of America.—The worshippers of the literary Bards of British idleness.

Speculators.—May all those who endeavor to grow rich by taking advantage of the ignorance or necessities of their fellow citizens, form a society by themselves, on the borders of Mexico.

An Aristocracy of Wealth.—Better is it that an individual should receive honor, because the blood of a great man flows in his veins, than that he should be honored because the wealth of a great miser flows in his purse.

Aristocracy.—The only aristocratic principle that should be tolerated in a republican country, is that which recognizes only moral distinctions.

Democracy.—A name which will never become dishonorable until the liberties of the people are in danger.

Female Politics.—May the political sphere of women be always confined to the social and domestic circles—as soon as woman becomes politician she loses her charms—and as soon as she loses her charms she loses her influence.

Freedom of the Press.—It is always safe so long as it is under the censorship only of public opinion—but it is lost soon as that censorship is placed in the hands of the Judiciary.

Andrew Jackson.—The hero who placed new laurels upon the crown of glory which was presented to us by Washington.

Democratic Oppression of Whigs.—Jackson and Benton raving hogs and jackasses.

The Resumption of Specie Payments.—Demanded by honesty, opposed by fraud.

Our Union.—Better it that America should only be the happiest nation in the world, than to risk its destruction by endeavoring to make it a Utopia.

Freedom of the Press and Speech.—The liberty of telling all kinds of truths, with the facility to suffer punishment only for falsehood.

Fourth of July.—May all those who would make this day any other than a day of rejoicing, live to shed tears over their own ingratitude.

Our Farmers.—That class of men who assist Nature in working to the best advantage for the sustenance of her creatures. They enjoy the honor of belonging to the profession which was the occupation of some of the greatest of heroes.

Our Mechanics.—That class of men who finish and perfect the labor which Nature has begun for the benefit of the community—May their prosperity always keep pace with their skill and industry.

Merchants.—May their transactions with their fellow creatures always be conducted with an eye to the mutual advantage of both parties.

Lawyers.—May they never be paid for twisting the gordian knot which they are constantly twisting for their own interest!

The Clergy.—So long as they are the friends of liberty and the instructors of the people, we will support them—as soon as they become priests we will proscribe them.

The American Newspaper Press.—Condemned by Miss Martineau, at the daughter of John Bull—yet its principal errors are those which have been copied from the press of the mother country.

Whig Victories.—Always gained by their advance guard, but lost before the rear comes up.

The Hon. William Parmenter.—The distinguished representative of the democracy of Middlesex—The people, and not the politicians, send him to Congress—he will take his seat pledged to no political party, and no faction of any party, but will faithfully and truly represent the whole people who elected him.

The two Experiments.—The suspension of Bank specie payments, and the consistency and necessity of the old federal (false) which party. The former of recent occurrence, the latter coeval with the origin of the party. Both designed to deceive and impose on the people, by whom their machinations are now well understood. Politics have lost their charm, democrats heed them not, neither do they regard the predictions of party devotees of principle from its origin, inconsistent in all its movements, disgraced and discredited by its own brotherhood.

The gradual increase of metallic currency—A sure step to deprive the allied Banks of England and Pennsylvania of their power to control our trade and currency.

Society—Trade, for the mutual exchange of wants—its whole end and purpose. Freedom of association for the management of trade—its most vital necessity.

Credit—A slave held only in common, by Economy, Industry, and Honesty—the best of servants, but the worst of masters.

Aristocracy—which, with the love of the people on its lips has sought a des three marks as Warrior, Priest and Financier—to monopolize absolute dominion, in turn, over the Conscience, and the Purse. For us it remains to strip it of its cloak of money-changer, and scourge it from the People of Liberty—like another Judas, it has held the money-bag, and taken a bribe to betray us with a kiss.

The use of credit in the management of private finances—an equal right—the common property of the People. It is a been plundered by Legislatures, under the pretence of regulating the trade of banking, and made the private property of a privileged order of debtors, who have placed themselves and the whole of society in a more degraded, prostrate and insupportable condition than we were reduced to by our last war with Great Britain.

The Orator of the Day.—The patriotic sentiments he has this day promulgated meet a cordial response from the heart of every Democrat.

The proprietors of the Whig Menagerie at the West, are exhibiting a Daniel, instead of a Lion. 'Tis said he has a cloven foot.

Democracy—A mild but efficient Tonic for the present debilitated condition of the country.

Mr. Webster and his present friends at the West—When they meet through the ballot boxes in 1840, it will be like that of the two Irishmen—'You taught it was I, and I taught it was you, but it is neither of us!'

Geo. Jackson.—The firm supporter of the Constitution—may he live to see his country blessed with the only currency which is suited to our government, to enjoy the congratulations of a grateful people and of an approving conscience.

Andrew Jackson.—He has planted a thorn in the path of the aristocracy which will prick the shoe at every step.

The Banks—Like Mr. Biddle, condescendingly consented to fail when they could not pay their debts.

State Bankers—General Law and no monopoly.

'The Ten Cent Rebellion' or the valiant exploit of Zebulon and his children.—The mountain was in labor and brought forth a mouse.

Mr. Biddle's System—A very promising one, but not honest enough to pay one penny.

Daniel Webster, the travelling Caravan Lion of the opposition, let loose upon the Hogs and hominy of the West, seeking what he may devour.—The people there had better convert him to Judaism, or hew him to their pork.

Choose you this day whom you will serve—if democracy, Specie—if federalism, Rags.

In the course of the afternoon Col. SETH J. THOMAS made a spirited speech, which was greatly applauded—his thrusts at Judge White and Daniel Webster, were justly severe—we regret that we have not a copy of the Colonel's remarks for publication, as we feel assured that they would receive as warm a response from our readers generally, as they did from those present.

The following extracts were read from Mr Webster's Speeches and produced much laughter:—

Webster's Singularity.—In his Indiana speech he says—'I have some respect for my character as a public man'

Webster's description of his Massachusetts friends.—'The destruction of credit is the destruction of our means of living.'

Webster's Philosophy.—'Over-trading, over-buying, over-selling, over-rich trading, over-production, are terms which I acknowledge I do not very well understand.'

Question by Webster.—'I am at a loss to conceive how a nation can become poor by producing more than she can sell or consume?'

Answer by Mather Goose.—'I bnd twice as many pies as I could sell, and got trusted for the flour.'

Webster's Confession.—'While the public land is tied down to a dollar and a quarter an acre, who would not buy it if he could?'

Webster's excuse for insolvency.—'Who can be expected to pay his debts, when a government has withdrawn the specie from circulation?'

Webster denouncing his Bank enemies.—'As you would hunt down with hound and horn the wolf who is making nightly havoc of your flocks and herds, pursue and keep down those who would make havoc in your business and property, by experiments on our currency.'

The Hon. DAVID HENSHAW presided, assisted by the officers mentioned on Tuesday, and at about five o'clock, the whole company retired, highly gratified with the celebration, and without witnessing the least thing to mar their pleasure.

The ascension of Mr Lauriat was the grandest ever witnessed here—he left the earth at a little past five o'clock, and rose to a great height, taking a South East direction and landed in safety on the flats beyond Duxbury.

The fireworks on the Common in the evening were magnificent beyond comparison, and were witnessed, we should judge, by the thirty or forty acres of people present, by at least forty thousand persons—indeed the common appeared to be completely covered by one dense mass of living beings. Some trouble was experienced in making an egress from the mall, owing to the size of the multitude, but we believe that no accident occurred.

The man who advertised to walk on the water, did it.

The City Celebration was very well, we understand; Mr Chapman is said to have delivered a well written Oration, and the Mayor's Levee passed off without 'anything being broke.'

The Order of Procession for the 'Boston Young Men's Society for the melioration of the condition of the Indians,' was prevented from moving at the time assigned in a previous notice, in consequence of waiting for the senior editor of 'the three' to finish his breakfast. The Chief Marshal, Mr Brown, has expressed to us his deep regret at the occurrence of any circumstance which should delay the formation of the procession, but more particularly at the fatal apoplexy which followed the surf.

The Commercial Gazette, in its haste and ill-concealed peevishness, small capitalized the names of several gentlemen in its remarks about the Young Men's Procession, who had no more to do with it than the editor of the Gazette.

The General Republican Committee of Albany have published an able address, which we shall copy into our columns.

The U. S. Ship Columbus.—The water will commence to be let into the Dry Dock, a little after twelve o'clock, for the purpose of floating and taking this ship out, at, or about a quarter before three P. M. tomorrow.

Store Breaking.—We learn from Briggs's Bulletin that on Monday night, the store of Richard Harris, Jr., situated under the Universalist Meeting house at South Boston, was feloniously entered through a window in the rear, leading into the cellar. Two young men who were sleeping in the store, heard the noise, and awoke just in season to see the fellow peering at them from the head of the cellar stairs. They started up instantly, and gave chase to the thief, who, in retreating, had the ill luck to stumble over some dozen bottles of wine in the cellar; notwithstanding which, he succeeded in making his escape.

Bank Breaking.—An attempt was made on Monday night to rob the Dedham Bank. The villains got through all but one lock, which either resisted their efforts, or else they did not reach it early enough to bestow sufficient labor upon it. It was a most daring thing at least. Every Bank should have some person to sleep within its walls every night. They owe it to the community to take this precaution.—Herald.

POLICE COURT.

Brutal Indecency.—A young German, named Michael Schoel, was brought up on the complaint of Mr James W. Curtis, agent of the Worcester Railroad Company, for indecent exposure of his person. As the afternoon train of cars arrived within half a mile of the Depot, Schoel, who had been fishing on the Railroad bridge, took particular pains to place himself so that all the passengers in the cars might see him, and to attract their attention, he also hollered very loud. Mr Curtis was with the train, and as soon as it stopped he took a locomotive, and brought Schoel to the Depot, from whence he was conveyed to jail. He could not understand English, and Veteran Reid acted as interpreter. He did not exactly deny the charge, and he did not like to admit it; but said he had neither father nor mother, or any other friend in the city, to help him in his necessity. For the want of bonds in the sum of $50, he was committed for trial at the Municipal Court.

Stealing at a Fire.—While the fire was raging in Mr Hodges' Hat Store, in Hanover Street, on Tuesday night, Neal Fox was observed keeping a sharp eye on some palm-leaf hats. Soon he was seen to stoop down, reach his hand into the store, and take out two, and place them on the window. Manoeuvre No. 2, was to take them down again, and No. 3, was to scamper down the street, but he was pursued, overtaken, and brought back to the store, where he said the hats were put into his hands for safe-keeping, and that when he ran away, it was only to find the man, and give up the hats. This fetch did not go down with his captors, nor did it obtain the credit of the Court, and so he was committed for trial, for want of bonds in the sum of $300. The hats are only worth a dollar, and the sentence may be, as it pleases his Honor Judge Thatcher, five years imprisonment in the State Prison.

All that was left to Patrick Mullens, was a broken and contrite heart—every other attribute of humanity had long since been washed away, or down his throat. He begged Watchman Stratton to take so much pity on him, as to complain of him as an incorrigible sinner; and when the Court said six months in the House of Correction, he said—'Six months! Is that all? Can't you say three more, and call it nine?' The Court had the best disposition in the world, to oblige him, but not the power. So that Patrick will come out of his shelter inactive in mid-winter.

MUNICIPAL COURT.—The Grand Jury returned Twenty-nine indictments, yesterday afternoon. Eighteen persons have been indicted for an alleged participation in the riot in Broad Street, on Sunday, the 11th of June. Fourteen of the number are Irishmen—one of them, John Whaley, is charged in a separate indictment—he has been clearly identified as one of the rascals, who struck Mr Charles S. Sears, after he had been knocked down. He also endeavored to demolish Engine No. 2. The punishment which may be inflicted upon him, ranges, according to the degree of guilt, from a nominal fine of one dollar, to Five Years confinement in the State Prison. The four Americans indicted are Abel Harrington, Elisha Gleason, Thomas Prime, and Mark Adams—the latter has forfeited his bail, and was not forthcoming to answer. The Irishmen arrested and held, but against whom no bill was found, are Daniel Keep and John Hickey, and they were accordingly discharged. The Americans discharged, for the same reason, are Elbridge Gerry Darnell and Pliny Piper.

The trial of these cases is set down for Monday.

Mr Swan, the magical performer at the National Gallery, was seriously injured on Tuesday, by the explosion of a pistol, while he was preparing it for the exhibition.

Briggs.

Cook's Circus.—A good bill and promise of a fashionable house to night, for the benefit of Mr T. Cooke Jr.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Mr. Greene.—The statement in your paper of the 4th inst. relative to certain Woolen goods, entered for storage at the Custom House, by Gordon & Stoddard, is calculated to convey to your readers a false impression of the facts in the case—and I ask the privilege of making the following statement in your paper.

The goods were regularly entered for storage about the time they arrived, and 'through a mistake of a clerk in the Custom House,' were delivered to our truckman, and by him conveyed to our store, without any direction, or act of ours of any kind, thus to get possession of the goods; and without any knowledge on my part that we had possession of them, up to the time I called upon the collector to settle for the duties thereon. I was the person that first gave information at the Custom House, that we had possession of the goods; and I then offered additional names, or Bank bills, (which latter were accepted,) as security for the amount of the duties, until we should receive a Treasury Warrant, which, as we informed the Collector, we then duly expected, and with which we have since paid the duties. The Collector knew at the time we pledged the bank bills, that possession of the goods was obtained 'through a mistake' of one of his clerks. A mistake, by the way, not unusual—for ourselves and others have, in more instances than one, had goods delivered under similar circumstances; in some of which cases they have been sent for by the Custom House and returned, and in others, have not been. And that clerk informed me, when I settled for the duties, that Mr. Henshaw had reprimanded him, in consequence of the mistake, which he said was his.

July 5. GEO. WM. GORDON.

Loss of property $110,040; of which was insured $74,250.

Latest from Florida.—By the arrival of the steam-packet Columbia, from Charleston at New York, Charleston papers have been received to the 29th inst, which contain the following particulars relating to the state of affairs in Florida:

St. Augustine June 22.—Our Indian Affairs.—We have but little to communicate in relation to our Indian affairs this week. Nothing has been heard from Gen Jesup for several days.

Fort Mellon has been abandoned on account of the unhealthiness of the post. Col Harney, who commanded there, has arrived here with his command of about 400 dragoons, who are stationed at Fort Marion. Co-concho (Philip's son) was at Fort Mellon when Col Harney left, with about 20 Indians. They expressed the most pacific intentions if the whites did not molest them, and promised not to turn the fort. They expressed a desire to visit Col. Harney in St Augustine.

Later—Report of the Murder of Micanopy—More Indian Depredations.—Since the above was in type, an express has arrived, bringing information from the interior of considerable importance. A letter from Fort King states that information had reached that post that the Seminoles, after obtaining possession of Micanopy, had murdered him and cut him to pieces. It is supposed the cause of this act was his friendly disposition towards the whites, his continued aversion to the war, and his good faith in attempting to fulfil the late treaty. This act is taken as a decided evidence of their continued hostility, and that they will not go off until they are entirely subdued and their pride and arrogance humbled.

The garrison at Fort King are represented to be very healthy. Out of six companies, there were but seven men on the sick report at the last advices.

The troops at Micanopy are also in good health.

Indian fires have been seen opposite to Picolata on the St John's river. General Jesup is expected in a few days, and will probably establish his headquarters here.

Two companies of dragoons have been ordered to take post at Picolata. They will sail to day in the steamboat Camden.

We have heard it stated that ground has been planted in Alachua and Columbia counties the past season, sufficient to yield one hundred thousand bushels of corn; but the 'sowers will not be reapers,' and they who planted will not be permitted to harvest. This will be abandoned to the enemy, together with much cattle and horses.—About ten thousand head of cattle are now on the big prairie to Alachua, and lately about three hundred head of horses condemned by the United States and sold, have been turned loose there to recruit. It is hard thus to be compelled to abandon our homes, our all, our living.

Three negroes belonging to Z. Kingsley, Esq. arrived at Picolata yesterday, from Drayton Island, near Lake George, who report that they saw Indian fires all around them, and that they left for a fear of capture. It is feared that the remainder, 17 in number, have been captured by the Indians, as they have not since been heard of. Mr. Kingsley re-established his plantation soon after the capitulation of the Indians.

Fire.—On Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock, a fire broke out in the hat store of Charles Hodges, under the Hanover House in Hanover street—the store was much injured before the fire could be extinguished, and nearly all the contents destroyed. Loss estimated at $4500, about half that amount insured. The fire originated in the back part of the store, and it is believed to be the work of an incendiary—who probably entered by the back window. It was ascertained that the desk had been broken open.—Mercantile Journal.

Burning of a Bridge.—The bridge on the Worcester Railroad, between Newton and Brighton, was burnt up on Tuesday morning. The passengers in the cars were detained some hours. It is supposed that it caught from the morning train. This will probably impede for some time the transport of merchandise, but not of passengers. Ibid.

Constables Routed.—At East Boston, Tuesday, the crowd was immense, and the owners of a shed and a pile of boards sent constables to drive away the sovereign people who had taken possession of the roof and top, to get a good view of the balloon. One of the constables struck a citizen, and a fight ensued, which soon became general, and lasted five or six minutes. The constables were put hors de combat, that is, were used up, and retired, leaving the 'mob of gentlemen' in possession of the premises. No blood was shed.—Transcript.

Melancholy Death.—A salute was fired on Tuesday morning at Malden, under the direction of Mr. Lockwood, of that town, who applied the match to the last gun, when it burst, and a fragment struck him on the head and killed him almost instantly. He was a worthy and much esteemed man, and has left a wife and three children to mourn his death.

Incendiary Attempt.—An attempt was made on Tuesday night to fire the residence of Mr. Prentiss Whitney, Charles street, third door from Beacon, by placing loco-foco matches under the back gate, in the alley leading from Beacon to Kitchen streets.—Trans.

Death by Drowning.—On Tuesday afternoon, a lad named Josiah Patten, about 11 years of age, was drowned in the canal on the mill pond. He was in a boat with two other lads, and falling overboard sank before he could be rescued.—Briggs's.
